BROOKS LEADS THEM ALL, SAYS
N. Y. MANAGER

"To my mind Herbert Brooks is a positive sensation, scoring strongly, and what is more important from the standpoint of the manager of the theater, has his audience talking about him as they start to leave the house and for many days afterwards. He was a hit at our house." Thus is the vaudeville headliner who comes to the Bijou theater tonight for a limited engagement commencing on July 28. The manager of the Grand Theater, New York, the Bakman recommendation is merely one picked at random from hundreds that are the proud possession of the individual mentioned in them.

"The king of mystifiers and the mystifier of kings" is the way Brooks is billed and he finds justification for this claim in the fact that he has toured every country of Europe, has played in all of the capitals and before a large number of members of royalty. He has also entertained with tests of magic and mystic in almost every country on the globe and is now en route to the United States after an extended and successful season in Australia and New Zealand. In the home of magic,

India, Brooks has scored some of his great successes.

Herbert Brooks would be a bad man as an opponent in a poker game. He is a wizard with card manipulation and is said by the most able critics to be head and shoulders over any other man following this line. A few examples of his work suffice to convince the most skeptical that a "stack of blues" is not desirable if Brooks is drawing cards. Cards, however, are but one of the many mediums he employs in his mysterious performance and it is expected that he will prove as big a riot in Honolulu as he has elsewhere in his several circuits of the globe.

The Bijou bill for tonight should be a good one as there is also appearing May Robson, one of the most popular comedienne of the stage, in her initial appearance, "A Night Out."

up of a series of amazing circumstances, there is not a scene that does not happen in daily life.

Star of a score of late mainland successes, Herbert Rawlinson makes his bow to Honolulu in this play. He has been given splendid support by Miss Anne Little and a well-balanced cast of principals. In his role as the virile American, Rawlinson appeals as few actors can, to the sense of justice and fair play.

The best new type of submarine of which much is expected adds an interesting feature to the illustrated news of the world to be shown on the Empire screen. A number of the prominent stars in national baseball are depicted in characteristic attitudes.

"In the Midst of the African Jungle" is a thrilling wild-animal drama. A late comedy, "The Person's Button Match," will be shown.

highways and byways of that home of the theater. Not a Fox film comes to the Hawaii theater, but there is some new member of the cast who has recently been induced to leave the glare of the footlights for the camera play. "The Family Stain," which is now being shown at this theater, and which will run through Saturday night only, boasts of several former stars of Broadway. Not the least among these is Helen Tiffany, who has a good part in this drama. Most of her work has been in musical comedy in which field she has starred successfully with De Wolf Hopper and Montgomery & Stone. With the latter she won great praise for her work in "The Candy Shop." "The Family Stain" is a strong detective drama, based on the fascinating story by Emile Garburiou, "The Widow Lerouge." "The Master Key" is another series of surprises in the current episode, and is one of the best sustained that has been shown in this city.

MISS ROCKWELL
A BIG FAVORITE

One of America's leading dramatic stars comes to the Liberty theater tonight in the leading role in the picture of E. P. Roe's immortal story, "He Fell in Love With His Wife." The star is Florence Rockwell and a few of her successes and some of her associates are: James O'Neill in repertoire; starred with Augustus Thomas in "Oliver Goldsmith" starred in "The Greatest Thing in the World," also in a recent revival of "Romeo and Juliet," starred in "The Doll's House," was leading woman successively with Henry Miller, Nat Goodwin and Richard Mansfield during their most successful New York engagements. She created the leading role in "The Mill of the Gods," "Popularity," "The Roundup," "The Barrier," "The Nigger," "The Double Cross," "Fine Feathers," "The Fallen Idol" and "The Awakening."

'THE GOPHER' HAS AMAZING SCENES

Down deep underneath the surface of society in the larger cities there lurks constantly an element of intrigue and romance more strange than many an adventure in the open. It is around a theme of this nature that the most dramatic offering, "The Gopher," a two-act production, is based.

"The Gopher" is produced under the direction of Frederick Mayerick and is a production of the Empire theater. The drama is made
